Description

Coaching is a core skill for Executive Directors as they interface daily with staff and volunteers. As the director communicates expectations most employees respond very well, while others “do their own thing” or worse yet, work against the director.

How we respond, shows our leadership skill. In this webinar, participants learn:

- The Coaching Cycle
- Five key Discussion Steps that yield great results
- Common Behaviors that require coaching discussions.

In addition, they will learn ways to provide positive recognition as a staff member makes a turnaround.
